WIFE OF MOVIE MAN ENDS LIFE

Well Known Author, Cleveland Girl, Kills Self While On Visit to China—Comes as Climax to Quake And Typhoon Terrors

LOS ANGELES — (Associated Press) — Mrs. Adelaide Manola Hughes was reported a suicide at Haiphong, Indo-China, in a brief cablegram received by her husband Major Rupert Hughes, author, playwright and motion picture director, here late last night.

The message stated merely that Mrs. Hughes had committed suicide and asked instructions as to the disposition of her body. In commenting on the brief dispatch, Major Hughes said his wife had long been battling disease and shattered nerves and no one else knew the battles she had with storms of gloom which swept over her.

"I let her go to China," he added, "because she thought she could regain her health and courage there. I thought that she had regained them until the cable came announcing her death. It is my greatest agony that after a life of such close and devoted union she should die alone and far away."

MENACED BY QUAKE

Death came to Mrs. Hughes at the close of a journey menaced by earthquake and typhoon. She left here last August on the advice of physicians several months after undergoing an operation for cancer. A nurse accompanied her. En-

JANITOR AT WORK DIES SUDDENLY

HEART TROUBLE IS CAUSE

Principal Discovers Body in Coal Bin of Building

William F. Baker, 72, 318 McPherson-av, janitor at McKinley school, was found dead Saturday at 10 a. m. in a coal bin at the school by the principal, Miss Hanna Gordon. This is the fourth sudden death here in five days.

Baker had been afflicted with heart trouble for several months but his condition had not been considered serious. He left his home about 6 a. m. in apparent good health. When Miss Gordon went to the basement about 10 a. m. to give Baker his check she found his body lying in the coal bin. He had been dead about a half hour.

Coroner Frank Smith was called and gave acute dilation of the heart as the cause of death.

Baker was born in Shelby-co, Ohio in 1851, and came to Lima 11 years ago to reside. He had been employed as janitor of the McKinley school for the last four years.

Surviving are the widow and one daughter, Mrs. Emma Schulenberg, of 1143 Brice-av. One brother and three sisters also survive.

Funeral arrangements have not been made.

GAMBLING HIT IN SPENCERVILLE

Mayor Orders Christmas Punch Boards Closed up

SPENCERVILLE — (Special) — Acting on orders from Mayor Adam Hirt, Ernest G. Henne, known as the "Blue Law Marshal," stopped the use of punch boards in 10 local stores Friday night.

While the use of punch boards in the village is taboo during the summer and fall, it has been the custom to permit them at Christmas time, they being opened up about Dec. 14. Spencerville became famous a few years ago thru the strict enforcement of the village blue laws. It is not believed, however, that absolute law enforcement will be seen at this time.

THIEVES COMING HERE

Lima police were asked Saturday by Toledo authorities to be on the lookout for automobile thieves who Friday night made their getaway with a Jewett sedan and escaped toward Lima. They stopped at Wharton, Wyandotte-co., and passed a bogus check on a filling station proprietor and drove away the direction of this city, it was reported.

WOMAN TRIES TO KILL SELF

"Let Me Alone," She Cried to Hospital Attendants

HUSBAND FINDS WIFE DEAD

Another Suicide Attempt Proves More Successful

KENTON — (Special) — Despite her plea that she be allowed to die, Mrs. Gladys Howard, 20, of Forest, mother of a three year old son, is on the road to recovery in McKitrick hospital from the effects of a dose of poison taken Thursday afternoon with suicidal intent. "Let me alone. I am better off dead," the woman pleaded to hospital physicians shortly after she took poison at the home of Charles Daum, where she was staying. Despondency over failure to obtain work is given as the cause for the act.

A 32 caliber revolver beside the lifeless body of Mrs. Alma Fulton, 39, found Friday morning in the bath room at her home in this city, told the story of a losing fight with despondency over poor health.

Albert Fulton, the husband, discovered the body early Friday when he investigated after receiving no response to calls to his wife. The woman is believed to have died instantly from a bullet in her head.

The daughter, Alta Marie, sleeping in a room adjoining the bath room was not awakened by the sound of the shot.

CINCINNATI—(Associated Press)

A father and two daughters were killed, and a third daughter seriously injured when their automobile struck a Norfolk and Western passenger train at the Paxton-rd crossing, near Wesson-rd, Hyde Park last night.

The dead: Sidney A. Mullikin, 52, school book publisher, Madisonville, killed instantly.

Miss Elizabeth Mullikin, 19, died two hours after the accident.

Miss Ruth Mullikin, 20, also succumbed several hours later.

Injured: Mary Louise Mullikin, 24, seriously injured but general hospital physicians have hope of her recovery.

Mullikin was a prominent Methodist, being a member of one of the general boards of that church. He was also prominent in the Masonic order. He came here from Marietta several years ago.

The girls were students at the University of Cincinnati, and Mullikin was bringing them home from school.

Mullikin was driving north on Paxton-rd toward the crossing and, according to the injured daughter's statement, snow and ice had incrustured the windshield and glass of the closed car, apparently causing poor vision, and the automobile ran headlong into the passing train, she is said to have stated.

Mrs. Hughes was a Cleveland girl, daughter of the actress Marion Manola. In her teens she played in her mother's company and later appeared in her husband's plays. In 1908, as Mrs. Adelaide Mould, widow of a movie director, she was married to Mr. Hughes at Jersey City.

She was a clever writer, "whose lack of self-confidence alone," according to her husband, "prevented her from being known to the world as I knew her." She was the author of "Diantha" and "Gloria's Romance," and collaborated with Major Hughes on the scenario of one of his motion pictures.

CAUSE OF NICKEL PLATE'S DOUBLE INCOME EXPLAINED

Nickel Plate railroad's dividend appropriation of $2,471,341, representing six-months period or two quarterly dividends of $1,50 each, mentioned in the condensed income and profit and loss account for the quarter ended September 30, 1923, caused some confusion, which arose as to why six-months' dividends should be charged out in a quarterly report.

Explanation is that the Nickel Plate, at the close of 1922, paid a dividend of $1.50 a share. When consolidation proceedings were under way, the quarterly payment of $1.50, due April 1, was not made. Shares delivered of July 10 carried two quarterly dividends. Nickel Plate stock was listed on the New York Exchange on a when issued basis, and very shortly after that a dividend of $3 a share was paid, with $1.50 as accumulated dividend. This accounts for the misunderstanding in the dividend appropriations in the report just issued to the New York State Public Service Commission.

Condensed income and profit and loss account of the New York, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad Co., for the quarter ended September 30, 1923, shows net income of $1,484,422 after expenses and charges, as compared with net of $1,403,709 for the corresponding quarter of 1922. There was a deficit of $987,519 for the quarter after dividend appropriation, as compared with a surplus of $1,053,969 for the same period of 1922.

SCOUT DIRECTOR GETS PROMOTION TO CHICAGO

J. M. Butcher of Columbus, regional director of boy scout work for Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia, has been transferred to regional director of Illinois with headquarters in Chicago, according to word received at scout headquarters Friday.

While feeling glad that Director Butcher has had such an advancement, local scout officials are in a way sorry because they felt that if he had not been offered the job in Illinois he would have taken over the work of scout executive in Lima, as business men here had made him a flattering offer. It is learned from reliable sources.

The new building will be of colonial architecture. Outside brick will be Hanover red brick, with white mortar joints and stone trimmings.

MAYOR INDICTED BY GRAND JURY

Tiffin Executive Linked With Million Dollar Liquor Ring

24 OTHER CITIZENS NAMED

Former Sheriff and Ex-Police-man Among the Number

TOLEDO — (United Press) —

Deputy Marshal Weeks will go to Tiffin Monday with warrants for the arrest of Mayor Adolph Unger and 24 other citizens indicted by a federal grand jury for alleged complicity in a million-dollar liquor ring.

Among those indicted are a former sheriff, the son of a common pleaser judge, and others high up in the social life of Tiffin. The list follows:

LIST OF INDICTED

Eugene Grimes, Charles Bare, former Sheriff Fred Lang, Anthony Trameran, Frank Mitchell, barber shop proprietor, Edward Clause, Edward Marks, George E. Swigart, Charles Trimmer, George Schulte, former patrolman; Pearl Grimes, William Leiby, Lawrence Burhart, Charles Ellison; James Roberts; Aaron Fred; Ed Wegner; C. H. Sterrett, pool room proprietor; Nevin Platt, Neil Hoke, Lewis Yochum, A. G. Moorehead, Ned Thatcher and C. B. Rodgers.

According to the indictments the alleged "ring" was organized at the instigation of the mayor, who is said to have agreed to prosecute any bootleggers who threatened to compete with the "ring."

Mayor Unger maintains that the action of those making charges against him, leading to the indictment, is merely an effort to discredit him.

Unger was defeated for re-election in the fall elections by John Dreitzler, Democrat, by 100 votes.

LAFAYETTE MAN WILL BE GIVEN TRIAL THURSDAY

Hearing of J. C. Arnold, Lafayette, charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated, scheduled for trial Thursday afternoon in criminal court, was postponed until Thursday, Dec. 19, at request of defense counsel.

Counsel refused to waive jury trial when the city proposed opening of trial despite absence of defense witnesses.

The jury will be drawn next Monday afternoon and at the same time subpoenas will be served on defense witnesses. Officer Koney and Sgt. Thayer arrested Arnold on N. Central-av. A search of the car produced three bottles, two of which contained alleged liquor, police say.

GETTING NOWHERE

EVERYTHING is funny (ridiculous) to a person with an extreme sense of humor. For instance, the man using the rowing machine in the accompanying pen-picture by Artist Satterfield.

Satterfield comments: "Sanity is relative. If you visited a lunatic asylum and saw a man using a device like a rowing machine, and insisting that he was Columbus crossing the ocean to discover America, you'd smile in pity. In real life, it's o. k."

There is, of course, the difference that the sane man using a rowing machine, while rowing to beat the band and not getting anywhere, is really rowing himself to a definite destination—better health. Excellent exercise, rowing.

Nevertheless, there is something humorous about the man rowing and rowing without moving the device he rows. However, he is symbolic of many of the things we do in civilization—tremendous amount of effort and hurry, with no real destination, no real progress.

YOUR FEARS

THE greatest disease in the world is fear. You have noticed that people who have as especial fear of any particular disease usually wind up by contracting that disease. Maybe the fear is just a premonition of an ailment that is gradually developing in the body; maybe not—it depends on your viewpoint in regards to the effect of the mind on the body.

Fear, however, makes people frantic. It unbalances the nervous system, with the natural result that the digestive apparatus gets out of order or the body's powers of resistance against disease are otherwise lowered.

In this way fear becomes an intensifier of diseases. The hypochondriac or neurasthenic is really a victim of fear.

And people who do not fear disease are more able to combat disease, simply because their mental attitude helps keep their nervous system balanced and healthy.

Some medical scientists claim that fear and courage are the results of varying conditions of the adrenal glands attached to the kidneys. When these glands are too active, the owner is timid. Cautious is a better word, for the diseased glands telegraph to the brain that the body might be endangered by over-exertion and accordingly should take no chances.

When the adrenal or some of the other mysterious glands do not function normally, the owner has spells of indefinable apprehension—dread of everything in general and nothing in particular, a sort of fear or premonition of impending disaster.

Fear is as deadly to careers as it is to health. Failure often is the result of fear and the timidity and warped mental attitude produced thereby. On the other hand, success often is largely the result of self-confidence—absence of fear.

1924 OUTLOOK BRIGHT

THE "big fellows" are optimistic about 1924. Judge Gary predicts it will be a better year for business than 1923. Eugene G. Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel, expects 1924 to be "a repetition of 1923, and that business conditions in two years will prove similar."

Even more comforting is the fact that the habitual crepe-hangers are quiet.

GOOD OIL INVESTMENTS

IF you have SOUND investments in GOOD oil property, don't be discouraged because the oil industry is shot to pieces by over-production at present.

David White, expert geologist for Uncle Sam, predicts that the United States will be dependent on imports for a definite part of its oil supply within five years. The day is coming when airplanes will use as much gasoline as autos—unless another fuel is found.

BY OH. OH. JACKENRIM

A Page from the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter: Up, after lying abed awake, thinking of the old morn. To breakfast, and from the window watched Old Sol fighting Winter. Winning here and there, breaking up the snow mounds. Then he laid down a barrage, which surely will put the King in retreat before the noon hour.

Was holpen thrice to wheat cakes, and so, out foot. My golf tees now all but totally healed, and will soon be well to be.

At the shoppe, whence came Henry G. Wemmer, the cigar prince and banker; and with him, Max-russ Hoffeller, the haberdasher, planning soon to be away to Daytonia. We discoursed on trade about town, and well pleased thereat. Then I to my stint.

Thither, to The Eiks where did see Mack Coll, playing hostess to many madames. With Santa Klaus hovering over the feed, methinks. And while dining, a bird flew in and told me who would be the next city manager. And what his salary will be. It won't be $4,000 and it won't be $8,000. And it won't carry an expense account with it. Unless the contractors give that.

Lunched, with my rich sister, who stayed over to rewrite her will. The durst not hope to find what she said therein. A box of candy and to the cinema last night, may have helped some. On the avenue, fell in with two society women, one with husband. Albeit, I picked up with the husband's wife, knowing it would well please her and give her a change. And he seemed much bemused, and blinded by the other's beauty and badinage.

At the Grant Stores, met a little coddler in deep distress, for want of monies. With which to buy his sister a Christmas present. Yet he mightily brave, refusing a six penny which I offered him. There goes Harry Bentley, whom I have not seen since he saved his appendix.

About the town, shopping here and there. And everywhere finding big crowds. Thither back, to find my wife, poor wretch, awaiting me. And with her to the stores again, she picking a few things against warmer climate in the Bermudas. When we did go home, remembered I had forgotten my needed palamas.

Dined magnificently, on lamb chops, juicy au natura, boiled potatoes with paprika, and asparagus tips for the salad. The sweet was an apricot delicacy with the best cake I ever did eat.

Then, in the evening, out to meet Col. Albert Gale, going to a Mah Jong game at Charlie's Place. So I with him in, and bot a pound of coffee from Steward Lewis, who now runs the beanery there. Losing a shilling or two, late home, to find my wife and child also gone—mahjongging.

BRYAN'S WEEKLY BIBLE TALK

"The Universal Reign of Christ"

Text of Today's Bible Talk by Mr. Bryan

(Isaiah 11:1-10; Psalms 2:8)

And there shall come forth a rod out of the stem of Jesse, and a Branch shall grow out of his roots:

And the spirit of the Lord shall rest upon him, the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of counsel and might, the spirit of knowledge and of the fear of the Lord:

And shall make him of quick understanding in the fear of the Lord; and he shall not judge after the sight of his eyes, neither reprove after the hearing of his ears:

But with righteousness shall he judge the poor, and reprove with equity for the meek of the earth; and he shall smite the earth with the rod of his mouth, and with the breath of his lips shall he slay the wicked.

And righteousness shall be the girdle of his loins, and faithfulness the girdle of his reins.

The wolf also shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the calf and the young lion and the fatling together; and a little child shall lead them.

And the cow and the bear shall feed; their young ones shall lie down together; and the lion shall eat straw like the ox.

And the sucking child shall play on the hole of the asp, and the weaned child shall put his hand on the cobra's den.

They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain; for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea.

And in that day there shall be a root of Jesse, which shall stand for an ensign of the people; to it shall the gentiles seek; and his rest shall be glorious.

Ask for me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession.

(BY WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN)

Once again we approach the Christmas season, and our text today, which will be found in Isaiah and the Psalms, most appropriate has to do with the reign of the promised Messiah. Without attempting to analyze and interpret each verse, I direct attention to two outstanding thoughts—first, the kind of a Messiah whose coming was foretold and the contrast between the character of the kings of that time and the looked for sovereign; second, the startling accuracy with which the prophecy has been fulfilled.

The Messiah was to be a descendant of Jesse, the father of David; the spirit of God was to rest upon him; the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of counsel and might, the spirit of knowledge and of the fear of the Lord. He shall not judge after sight of his eyes, neither reprove after the hearing of his ears. But with righteousness shall he judge the poor, and reprove with equity for the meek of the earth.

Even the animals will be at peace; the wolf and the lamb, the calf and the young lion; and a little child shall lead them. The earth is to be "full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea." The root of Jesse shall stand for an ensign of the people; all nations shall seek him, and "his rest shall be glorious." The nations are to be his inheritance and the uttermost parts of the earth are to be his possession.

In an earlier chapter the prophet describes more minutely the expected Messiah:

"For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given; and the government shall be upon his shoulder; and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The mighty God, The everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace."

These words were spoken more than seven hundred years before the birth of Christ and yet the prophet dared to describe in advance the person who was to appear on that faraway day. The prophet's description of the Messiah's government was even more bold—"Of the increase of his government and peace there shall be no end." He even names the foundation stones upon which that eternal government is to rest—it is to be established with justice and with judgment.

WHICH IS MORE WONDERFUL? Isaiah lived in an age of warfare; history was written in characters of blood; ambitious kings involved the world in continual war and assassination of royal brother by royal brother was too frequent to attract serious attention. Dynasties rose by murder and kings reigned by violence only to be stricken down.

Altho living at such a time, Isaiah was able to see the dawning light of a happier day; above the boisterous tumult of his times he could catch the music of the heavenly choir.

Such a government as he foresaw had never existed on earth and nowhere in the world could he obtain the suggestion that such a government would ever be, and yet he proclaimed its coming, described its high character and pictured the sovereign under whose benevolent sway the world would have relief from sorrow and enjoy perpetual peace.

Which is more wonderful—that such a Christ should actually come, or that His coming should be foretold with such distinctness so many centuries in advance?

Christ's appearance was not the climax of a gradual ascent of the whole world, of a single people or of a single race. There was no slow unfolding, each generation rising a little above the one before, until finally a superman arrived, a natural result of preceding progress. On the contrary, for some four hundred years the Jewish race lay fall-low, without a great character to recall the heroes of the past or to give promise of heroes yet unborn.

A PROMISE FILLED How, then, shall we explain the vision of the prophet? His thought conquered time as the radio today conquers space. It is hard to find authentic history, so prone is man to color facts to suit his liking. Carlisle called history a "distillation of rumor," and it has been described as "fiction agreed upon."

Wendell Phillips says that scholars write history, part truly and part as colored by their prejudices. Prophecy has been defined as history written in advance—whence the prophet's power to set down in detail that which is to be more accurately than the wisest men are able to describe the things that have actually transpired?

And the prophecy has been fulfilled; the Christ came and He came as a child—"Unto us a child is born." He has received all the appellations which the prophet enumerated.

He has been called Wonderful—"He spake as never man spake." He has been called Counsellor—He is the advisor of all races. He is now described as The mighty God—"very God" who "thought it not robbery to be equal with God," and is worshipped as one of the Trinity.

He is the everlasting Father into whose hand all power in heaven and in earth has been given and who has promised to be with His people always.

THE GREAT PEACE GIVER Above all, He is "The Prince of Peace."

He has brought peace to the hearts of multiplied millions, leading them to repentance, cleansing them of their sins and giving them "a conscience void of offense toward God, and toward men."

He has brought peace between individuals, substituting love for hatred and kindness for violence. He has so changed the hearts of men that they find more pleasure now in brotherhood than they ever found in jealous rivalry; He has filled innumerable lives with a passion for service.

His followers, turning away from evil with a soft answer, overcoming evil with good, and conquering thru service, are proving the practical value of His precepts and His example. The beatitudes have been fulfilled; the kingdom of God is at hand; the peace of God which passeth all understanding is the gift of His grace.

And there is no other. (Copyright, 1923)

pointed out a shorter and more certain road to happiness than any trail blazed by an army, and have brought a reward that force could not assure. "Of the increase of his government and peace there shall be no end."

There is a materialistic philosophy that would fasten the blight of mortality upon all governments. It teaches that because man is born, grows strong, passes thru a period of maturity and then, of necessity, declines and dies, therefore, a government, man's handiwork, must pass thru similar experience and at last reach the same end, UNSOUND REASONING.

The reasoning is unsound. Governments, while representing the individuals living today, really represent generations instead of individuals. As one generation passes off the stage, another comes on. A government, therefore, may be as enduring as the race itself.

Unless there is some reason why a future generation must necessarily be weaker or worse than this, there is no reason why any government that reflects the virtue, intelligence and patriotism of its people should ever be weaker or worse than now. Governments have gone to decay; nations have perished, races have rotted, but there has always been a cause—an unnecessary cause. If the cause can be eliminated, the result can be eliminated also!

The government which the prophet foresees is to be perpetual because it rests on justice and is to be administered with judgment and equity. This is not a matter of speculation, it is demonstrable.

What domestic problem would disturb us if Christ reigned in every heart? In a few brief sentences Christ has given us the cure of all crime: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength, and thy neighbor as thyself."

What wrong would exist if these two commandments were obeyed by all? Murder is rampant—more so in the United States than in any other countries. Larceny, burglary, and robbery are common. As I write, twenty desperadoes held up an Indiana town. Swindlers prey upon the unsuspecting, gathering a toll estimated at two billions a year, while frauds practised in stock manipulations run to nearly a billion more.

Monopolies, local, state and national, hold up consumers with a brutality that makes the ordinary highwayman seem like a gentleman—and the list might be indefinitely increased. What one of these crimes would be perpetrated if Christ were the counselor at every fireside?

Christianity, universally applied, would do more than prevent injustice; it would usher in an era of benevolence. The swollen fortunes that represent collections in excess of earnings would disappear and God's law of rewards would stimulate all to the highest endeavor by assuring to each a return from society equivalent to his contribution to society's welfare.

HUMANITY'S GREATEST FACT This economic law, once established, would go far towards eliminating poverty, while the law of stewardship, supplementing the economic law, would provide a fund from which the unfortunate could be aided in proportion to their merits.

There is not a wrong that would not be remedied, not an evil that would not be cured, not a sorrow that would not be healed under the benign government of the Prince of Peace.

And more. Wars would cease, armaments would vanish and neighboring nations, separated by an imaginary line, would need no forts or towers or battleships to mark their boundaries—as the United States and Canada have needed none for a century. Isaiah foresaw all this and foretold it.

Christ is not only the greatest fact of history—there is no other fact to be mentioned in comparison with Him, but He is the growing figure of all time, the only growing figure in the world today.

His blood is sufficient to save and His teachings are sufficient to solve the problems that vex our hearts and perplex the world.

And there is no other. (Copyright, 1923)

VINCENTINI DROPS DECISION TO JOHNNY SHUGRUE

League Meeting Of Moguls Ends Without Usual Big Deals Being Announced

Richard's Jack Plant Gets Setback Stacking Up Against Jersey Boy

(BY HENRY L. FARRELL)

NEW YORK — (United Press) — Some of the current frost did a lot of damage to Tex Rickard's second South American "jack plant" in Madison Square Garden last night as Luis Vicentini, Chilean lightweight, dropped a decision to Johnny Shugrue of Jersey.

Vicentini is a miniature of the famous Firpo plant which was splanted into American soil, cultivated and nursed carefully bloomed out into a million dollars in one season.

The unexpected frost that was encountered last night with the Vicentini bud but it no doubt will be revived. Shugrue, is not so good and who was expected to be about half blind, a hard socking from the right of the South American, but he was too much and was awarded decision after 12 rounds.

Some of the customers thought Vicentini might have been entitled to a draw by exerting a little of the easy that could be extended to him.

Tex Rickard said the bout did not live up to his plans for the South American and that he was going right with him.

He said he just what I wanted was a fight that would show the world that he is able to go along with him.

He said he was going to have a fight with Pal Moran, the New York lightweight, and he was sure he would hand him over to Leonard next summer.

Vicentini claimed that he was not a good fighter and that he wanted to postpone but that he was not going to allow him any more time.

It is apparent that any more time reading some of Firpo's literature, because he also complained that he had been fouled four times and he was going to ask the boxing commission to meet about it.

McAuliffe, the daddy of all fighters, who retired as an undefeated champion, looked over the American and said:

"I would do," along modern fights a lot like Firpo, but he is like he is farther along Firpo was when he started. If he has any ideas of beating Leonard he'd better forget about leading his right hand or he'll get back knocked off," McAuliffe said.

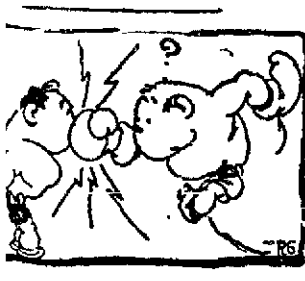

Vicentini DEFEATED (Associated Press) — America's latest pugilistic was checked but not eliminated last night when Luis Vicentini, Chilean lightweight, met defeat hands of Johnny Shugrue, of Jersey, Conn. While it was a setback to followers of the American, who had knocked out American opponents in a row, it was a spectacular comeback for Shugrue, who has been inactive most of the past year.

Vicentini's defeat was laid by mainly to overanxiety to maintain his knockout record and insufficient skill with which to follow up on his advantages. Shugrue's defensive work, his aggressive work from start to finish and to counter most of Vicentini's attacks as figured in giving him the win.

He held the upperhand for most of the fight but Vicentini staggered the American with a drive in the seventh, Shugrue from nose and mouth, the verge of a knockout but he weathered the storm. Vicentini tried hard in the next few rounds to land a finishing blow but he balked his attacks and in a round staged a whirlwind that had the Chilean in retreat.

It was agreed that Vicentini unusual fighting promise. Johnny Curtin, Jersey City, won on a foul in the fifth of a 12 round match with Joe of Brooklyn on the same card. He was disqualified for hitting or he had gained a wide margin Curtin on points.

Box Lacked Harmony

Those on the inside say that the failure of the White Sox to finish better than seventh in the American League was due to cliques on the ball club. Several of the players are alleged to have suffered from the belief that they were being discriminated against, and as a result did not give their best efforts. Among the disgruntled athletes was mentioned a clever outfielder and a capable pitcher. Under Frank Chance, who rules with an iron hand, this condition is sure to disappear, or else the peevish athletes will be wearing different uniforms.

McRae of Syracuse and Luman of Yale finished one-two in the selection of ends. McRae was almost a unanimous choice. Milstead of Yale was adjudged the best tackle with Sundstrom of Cornell just two votes behind.

Bedenk of Penn State led the guards with Hubbard of Harvard close up. Wederquist of Washington and Jefferson ran third. Garbisch of the Army was the choice for center, followed by Lovejoy of Yale and then Eckstein of Brown.

Pann of Cornell received the largest vote total of any of the players, 47 out of a possible 50. Those who failed to select him as a quarterback used him as halfback.

Wilson of Penn State showed the way to the halfbacks with Stevens of Yale second choice. Mallory was almost unanimous for the position of fullback.

Formal presentation of the Michigan alumni cup was made to Central High school, 1923 city football champions at Central building Friday noon.

J. E. Ludwig, representing the Michigan alumni in Lima, presented the cup. Coach H. J. Thibert of Central High, received the cup on behalf of the team.

Donors of the cup are former Michigan men in Lima. They were seated on the platform at the presentation. They are D. J. Cahie, William Parmenter, O. O. Barr, Virgil Knisely, Allan Knisely, Ralph Mackenzie, B. S. Motter, Joe Gooding, L. E. Ludwig, L. E. Merritt, Harry Workman, Paul Landis, Oliver Steiner, Clarence Klinger, B. H. Bokins.

The idea of giving the cup to the team winning the annual Thanksgiving game, was germinated when F. W. H. Vost, famous football coach, was guest of the Lima alumni at a dinner at the Shawnee Country club in August.

New Stadiums Costly While the new football stadiums are wonderful if filled several times during the season, they become quite a burden if the eleven has a bad year and fails to draw. The new stadiums have caused each college possessing one to try to book at least three worth-while games at home. Good attractions are necessary to fill the stadiums.

Local Cagers Set Back By Bluffton

Staging a belated rally in the last five minutes of play that brought them within four points of tying the score, the Lima Business College basketballers lost to the Bluffton College team last night at Bluffton by a 21-17 score. It was the first defeat for the locals this season.

In the first half the Lima team failed to cage a field goal, but tossed in four free throws out of five attempts. In the second half Crawford penetrated the hoop twice. Benedict once, and Marquis once, but due to the good work of Hostettler, Bluffton center, they were unable to overcome the Mennonite lead.

Altho attempting comparatively few shots at the basket, Bluffton made good nearly every try while the Business College repeatedly missed the leathered loop.

Crawford led the locals in scoring with two field goals and five free throws out of six attempts for a nine-point total. Hostettler, of Bluffton, showed uncanny accuracy by caging the sphere five times from the center of the floor. He tallied ten points.

A return game will be played here during January. The Rockford Reds will be the attraction at Hawley Hall tonight. This will be the third game this week for the Business College.

AS A MATTER OF FACT

Being a Criticism of the Just and the Unjust in the World of Professional and Amateur Sports BY HARRY GRADGURY

After all prophecies of the wise ones and speculation at the boiling point, the meeting of organized ball for the season of 1923 is a page of past history with practically nothing of any great importance resultant, and strange as it may seem those particular stars of national pastime, of which columns of publicity were used, remain just where they were. Roger Hornsby is still with the Cards; Urban Shocker is still a Brownie, and it seems certain will not figure in the exchanged columns and Eddie Collins is still second baseman of the White Sox. It is certain that Clark Griffith would like to have taken him back to Washington with him, but he couldn't see where he would benefit if he gave up Stanley Harris; Griffith probably reckoned it just a penny wise and a pound foolish idea and finally shook his head and departed. There were wise ones who declared that Griffith had a smile under his collar all the time, and enjoying the publicity which the rumor gained him. It wouldn't be at all surprising if he managed the Washington team himself next season. He is credited with a statement that if he couldn't find the exact fellow he would have no objection to handling the team all the time, and enjoying the publicity.

BUT MEETING WAS SIGNIFICANT But if one stops and thinks the meeting was significant. Perhaps the most surprising feature was the fact that John McGraw was absent. John is and has been considered as of more importance perhaps than all other managers of the whole association put together. John has a penchant for trades, for purchasing of promising players and it has been given out every since the termination of the world's series that he was satisfied that his team as it now stands would not pass muster and would necessarily have to be bolstered up. Now the cherry picking time has past and gone and John over in Europe. The nigger in the woodpile is growing; there's something doing, but what; all there's the rub. But still the big stars, the potential factors of baseball with one or two exceptions have been placed upon the block without a bidder. If it is true that McGraw has finally ceased the dizzy pace that he alone set so far as exorbitant prices of players is concerned; he has of course set the market in a panicky condition, and if he continues stubborn there is liable to be one of the worst slumps in the history of the game. There is evidence of this. Moran turned down the May proposition cold, and there is an example of talent being wasted on thin desert air. It looks like John was going to make his boast good. And it is about time managers came to their senses. The fabulous prices which have been paid for ballplayers is out of all reason. Sense dawn.

No matter how many die from poison liquor, none of them are bootleggers. They know too much to drink their own stuff.

Whether or not Hi Johnson really learned anything in Europe, he is not worrying him in the least. He picked up enough bunk to devise a bug-aboo that is scaring timorous people into his hand wagon.

We sometimes wonder why American business men do not join with the radical laborers and establish a soviet here. Wages are only $6.15 a month in Russia. That sure would help manufacturing plants.

Hiram Johnson should be reminded that the successful high jumper never takes a long running start.

Now that the first issues of the Congressional Record are arriving we hope there will be some cold stormy weather so we will have to stay home and enjoy them.

At that, those with a small supply of oil will appreciate the warming influence of a few Congressional Records, a budget report or two and perhaps a 10,000 word investigation of the spiffle bug in Greece—when placed in the furnace.

Funny, a lot of other cities never figured there was a chance to get the Republican national convention away from Chicago until Cleveland showed them how. Now they are trying to beat Cleveland out of it.
